

Do You Ever Wonder

[from "The Broadway Songs"]

Paul F. Page
ASCAP

1 Andante (♩ = c. 88-92)

5

1. Do you e - ver won - der why blue birds sing in Sum - mer time?
2. Do you e - ver won - der why Au - tumn fades in blaz - ing col - ors?

5

Red. Ped. segue

9

1. Do you e-ver won-der what makes the sky at dawn so shin - y? Could it be the
2. Do you e-ver won-der why Win - ter lin-gers quite a long while? May-be it's the

13

1. song of the wind? Could it be the song of child - ren laugh - ing as they
2. pass-age of time or the need to pon - der deep - ly that makes the sea - sons

13

17

1. play? Could it be the sigh of lov - ers try - ing to find their -
 2. run; gives each one a sim - ple ques - tion: when will they fall in

21

1. way? _____ 2. love. _____

25

Ev - 'ry sea-son makes me won - der. Ev - 'ry sea-son makes me cry.

29

But when - e - ver I am lone - ly I re - mem - ber there's a rea - son why.

33

Must be a rea - son why. _____

33

8vb

37

37

41

3. Do you e - ver wish for _____ the gold that comes a - long with rain - bows? _____

41

Red.

45

Do you e - ver wish for _____ a rose that blooms thru - out the whole year?

45

49

Was it real - ly you? Was it me? Did the two of us go sail - ing?

53

Did we catch the breeze? Did we e - ver say, "I love you," or did the mo - ment leave? Fun - ny how life chang - es...

57

61

Per-haps the sea - sons know the way. Strange as it may seem, then,

65

— when all the leaves have blown a - way when ev - 'ry-thing was good, ev-'ry-

69

thing I want - ed dear - ly sud-den - ly was gone. It's as though the sea-sons know me. They know that I'll be strong. -

73

77

Ev - 'ry sea-son makes me won-der. Ev - 'ry sea-son makes me cry. -

Sub

81

But when e - ver I am lone - ly I re - mem - ber there's a rea - son why.

85

Must be a rea - son why.

Sub

89

Why?

poco rall.